

For most women with a gynaecological disorder, there is a better treatment alternative

SWEC is one of the world leaders in keyhole surgery for women and one of Australia's most highly regarded endosurgery clinics and training centres.

It is an alarming fact that most women diagnosed with a gynecological illness are not made aware of the option of Laparoscopic or Endoscopic (keyhole) surgery. Keyhole surgery employs the latest developments in medical science and technology and involves a far less invasive method than traditional open surgery.

SWEC has been a world leader in Laparoscopic Surgery for nearly 15 years and treated over 10,000 patients in this time. They have published their results widely in the medical literature and run an internationally recognised research and training centre for Australian and overseas surgeons.

If you are considering a gynaecological operation why not give us a call.

Treatment for women where 'Less is more'

- less invasive than traditional surgery
- less time in hospital
- less pain
- less recovery time
- less scarring
- less disruption to the family
- less time off work

If you would like to discuss treatment options, call us today on

1300 498 448

swec.com.au

Sydney Women's Endosurgery Centre

- Uterine bleeding disorders
- Hysterectomy
- Fibroids
- Pelvic floor and vaginal prolapse
- Urinary incontinence
- Endometriosis
- Ovarian cysts
- Reproductive or tubal surgery
- Severe period pain
- Adhesions
- Some early pelvic cancer